

Business Search

- Home
- The Guide
- The Biz
- The Shows
- Chatterbox
- Info
- Search

- The Grapevine
- Feature Articles
- Just Launched
- Sales/Promotions
- News Updates
- CPSC Center

Loud Cheers for Noise-Reducing Hats

Previous Page

Home > The Biz > Feature Articles > The Grapevine

By Mari Gold - Friday, July 26th 2013

It's a noisy world and headlines are full of problems caused by loud sounds on young ears. To help protect the very young, Dots on Tots introduces cute hats for little ones that reduce external sound by fifty percent. All hats from this company are made of organic materials to be super-soft on tender skin.

The Flappy-Tappy Ear Protection Hat keeps little heads warm and sound at bay with two layers of certified organic cotton on the ear flaps as well as an inner layer of fleece cotton that forms a pocket for the insert, made of four layers of organic hemp that has a fuzzy texture on one side to absorb noise. To convert the item into a regular hat, simply remove the insert. Flappy-Tappy has a hook-and-loop closure and comes in small and medium. Flapped hats are available in white, pink, royal blue and natural, lined and unlined, in plain double-layered organic cotton, merino wool lined with cotton and cotton lined with organic fleece. There is also a beanie-shaped version with a knot atop. All are cute, practical and whisper soft.

Your shoppers will appreciate a hat and mitten set for a brand new baby that is available in white, pink or natural double-layered organic cotton. It fits the tiny head and hands of a tot from birth to six months. The company also offers no-scratch merino wool mittens that are lined with organic cotton so no little paws will feel itchy. These mittens come without thumbs, a great idea because stuffing babies' thumbs into hand wear is too much of a challenge.

Toddler-sized sun hats come in several colorways including pink, blue or mushroom with white. These hats are vented on top so cooling breezes can waft through and are reversible — like getting two hats in one.. These sun hats are spectacular for little girls with long hair as ponytails can be lifted off the neck in summer heat.

Organic cotton has special properties that make it a particularly good choice for youngsters. It stretches so the fit is always comfy and the fabric breathes. Organic cotton is not treated with pesticides so no trace of toxic materials sullies the communities where the fibers are grown, a grace note for the planet. Organic cotton farmers are not permitted to use petroleum-based fertilizers or genetically modified seed, so the end result is fabric that is soft and friendly to tender skin.

Related Tags

NEWS SECTION

The Grapevine

SEXES

Boys

Girls

AGES

Newborns (0-6 months)

Infants (6-24 months)

Toddlers (2-4 years)

FEATURES

Eco-friendly

Organic

Special Needs

PRODUCTS

Apparel

- SPONSORS OF THE GIGGLE GUIDE -

