

ONE SUPER SASSY MAMA

Everyday Reflections from a Stay at Home Mom

Product Review: Dots on Tots Hat

The mild weather of the fall is now behind us and we have the treacherous winter coming quickly. For moms, this is a time of finding snowsuits, hats, mittens and gloves to fit our constantly growing children. But we all know, winter fashion can be fun and baby winter fashion even better.

Nothing is more important in a winter ensemble than the perfect hat. Not only do they provide warmth for the entire body, but they also must protect little baby ears. The Dots on Tots hat I am reviewing is not only a warm, 100% cotton Sherpa hat, it is also adorable. The earflaps are wide enough to protect baby's ears in the cold wind and it velcros at the bottom so it won't come off. And, it is a very soft hat.

Here are some benefits:

- 100% certified organic
- Low-impact dyes
- Eco-friendly
- Breathable, irritant-free fabric
- Manufactured in the U.S.
- Shipped in 100% eco-friendly packaging

The company offers many different types of hats for babies and toddlers. The only downside is the high price, which, based on the hats durability, seems reasonable. If buying for cold winters, I recommend this hat.

For more information on Dots on Tots visit their website at <http://dotson tots.com/>.

▼ 2013 (16)

▶ December (3)

▼ November (6)

Giving Thanks

Product Review: Dots on Tots Hat

The Juice Illusion Infographic

Favorite Baby Registry Items

Fun Friday: Baby Handprints

Dedication

▶ October (5)

▶ September (2)

POSTED BY